

■ Key Components in a Banking System

End-to-end overview of how modern banking infrastructure processes transactions

■ END-TO-END TRANSACTION FLOW

■ ■ KEY INSIGHT

A banking transaction is not 'instant' in system terms — it is a carefully coordinated process between multiple systems working in real time. Each system has a specific responsibility, and failure in any layer can affect the final transaction outcome.